

Other types

Other types of conveyances were: the buck-board, the fringe-topped Surrey; the phaeton; sedan; rig cart; sulky; buggy.

PHOTOGRAPHY/ STUART W. JOHNSON
Snow Prince Ian Childs, Princess Stephanie Mashburn wave to crowd.

Jim Bridger claimed to be the first white man to discover the lake, in 1825. In 1776 a party of Spaniards led by Father Escalante explored here.

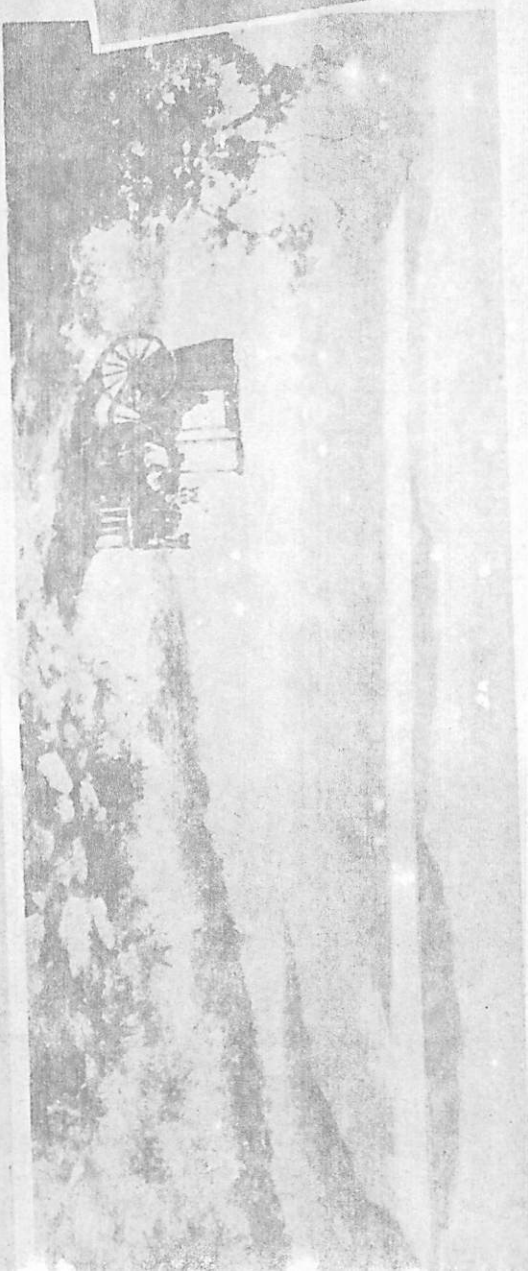

Few rode to Utah, and there were those who didn't even have a wagon for their possessions, but crossed the plains with a handcart holding all.

To the south and east were the mountains, bright clothed in the white of winter snows of months before. How profound was the silence of those heights! How absolute the calm of the atmosphere! The pioneers slept under the stars that night and the very heaven flooded the camp with glory.

"This is the place," declared their leader, Brigham Young. The promised land had been reached, and among the many things to do was to get down to the soil and conquer it and, in conquering it, they loved it. They turned the waters of the mountain stream onto the land and plowed and planted. A prayer of dedication was offered to God and the work of plowing and planting continued. The following day was the Sabbath. The people himself in unending good fortune, the and the power to keep himself and his people in happy heart. He had a ceaseless devotion to the claims of justice. He believed that there is a call of God to nations as well as to men, and looked upon the government of the United States, with its constitution, as a government called of God.

Editor's Note: Other articles by Professor Young in this edition appear under captions "School Bells Ring," "Taking Root," "Growing Pains," "Sidewalks of Salt Lake," "Learning's Light," "Knowledge Is Power," "Freedom to Worship," "Religious Growth" and "Home, Sweet Home."

Brigham Young, ill of mountain fever, traveled in rear of group in Wilford Woodruff's carriage. He first saw the valley at noon, July 24, 1847.

"To us, their less tried successors, those pioneers appear magnified, not as agents of trade, but as instruments of a recorded destiny, pushing out into the unknown in obedience of an inward voice, to an impulse beating in the blood, to a dream of the future."—Joseph Conrad.

Looks like First South and Main used to look. Trolleys, power lines, telephone poles adorn the street. These were the horse and buggy days of days that used to be. Jaywalker had some rights in that time. He could cross street whenever it occurred to him that he would rather be on other side. "Look Out for Cars!" only order.

Jim Bridger claimed to be the first white man to discover the lake, in 1825. In 1776 a party of Spaniards led by Father Escalante explored here.

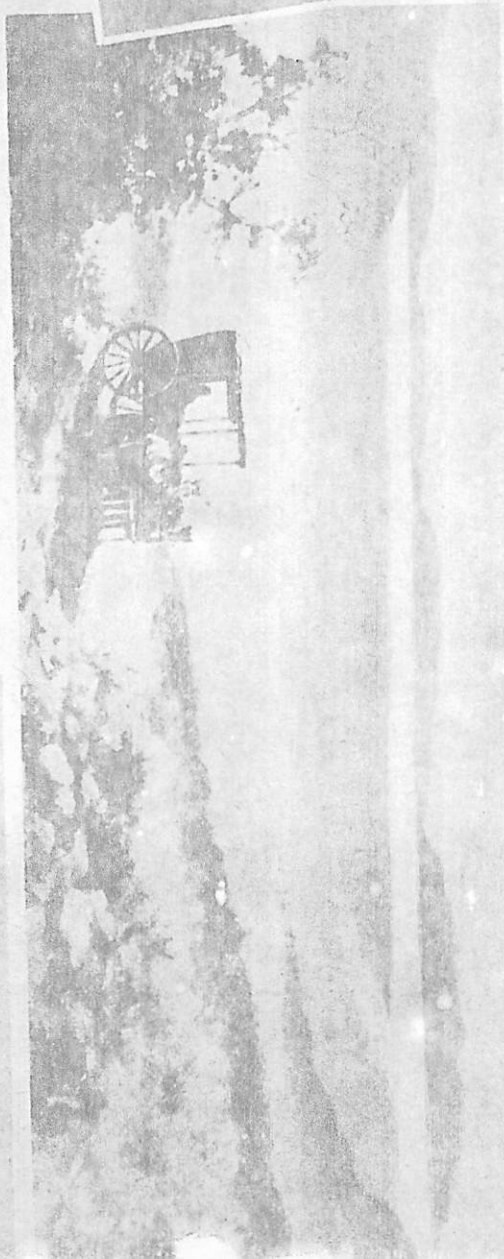

Few rode to Utah, and there were those who didn't even have a wagon for their possessions, but crossed the plains with a handcart holding all.

To the south and east were the mountain ranges clothed in the white of winter snows of months before. How profound was the silence of those heights! How absolute the calm of the atmosphere! The pioneers slept under the stars that night and the very heaven flooded the camp with glory.

"This is the place," declared their leader, Brigham Young. The promised land had been reached, and among the many things to do was to get down to the soil and conquer it and, in conquering it, they loved it. They turned the waters of the mountain stream onto the land and plowed and planted. A prayer of dedication was offered to God and the work of plowing and planting continued. The following day was the Sabbath. The people himself in unending good humor. He had the power to keep himself and his people in happy heart. He had a ceaseless devotion to the claims of justice. He believed that there is a call of God to nations as well as to men, and looked upon the government of the United States, with its constitution, as a government called of God.

Editor's Note: Other articles by Professor Young in this edition appear under captions "School Bells Ring," "Taking Root," "Growing Pains," "Sidewalks of Salt Lake," "Learning's Light," "Knowledge Is Power," "Freedom to Worship," "Religious Growth" and "Home, Sweet Home."

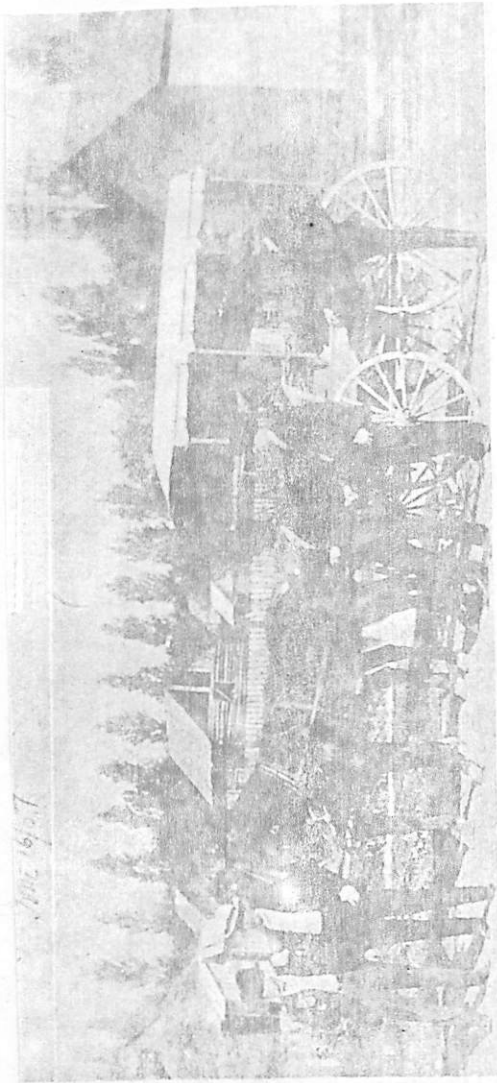

Brigham Young, ill of mountain fever, traveled in rear of group in Wilford Woodruff's carriage. He first saw the valley at noon, July 24, 1847.

"To us, their less tried successors, those pioneers appear magnified, not as agents of trade, but as instruments of a recorded destiny, pushing out into the unknown in obedience of an inward voice, to an impulse beating in the blood, to a dream of the future."—Joseph Conrad.

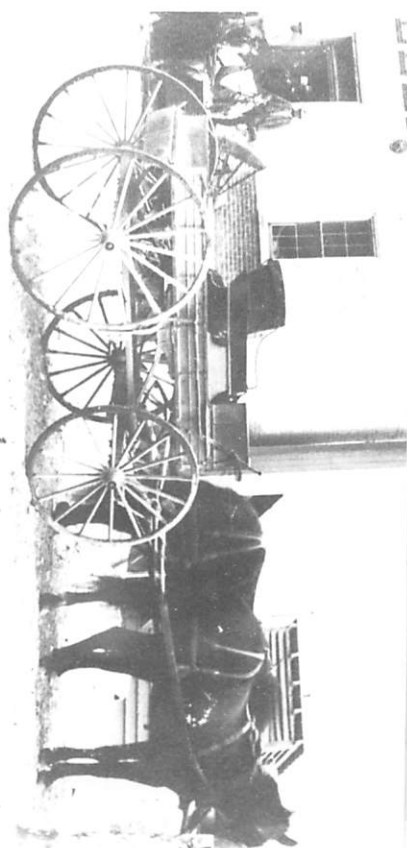

Nothing like a day in the country in an old buckboard. Good for fishing or hunting, or just plain travel, this vehicle

See caption across the top of the school building across the

Geo E Anderson

MEL'S SUPPLY
145 West 400 South
Lehi, Utah 84043
801-768-3519

Mel & Dona Anderson
369 South 200 West
801-768-9926

BUGGIES

To Transportation

Prices Effective
March 15, 1984

1. One-Seat Sleigh	$ 750.00
2. Two-Seat Sleigh	950.00
3. Show or Pleasure	795.00
4. Training Car	400.00
5. Run-a-bout	1500.00
6. Queen's Phaeton	2000.00
7. Single-Seat	1555.00
8. Extra Seat for	315.00
9. Doctor's Buggy	1850.00
10. Double-Seat Democrat	1900.00
With "Soft-Top"	2400.00
With Surrey Top	2200.00
12. Forecart (Without Tongue)	800.00
13. Forecart (With Tongue)	850.00
14. Single Horse Shafts	250.00
15. Team Tongue (Includes Double-tree & Neck Yoke)	350.00
16. Leather Buggy Harness	225.00
17. Black Nylon Harness	165.00
18. Three-Seat Democrat*(6 Passenger) with "Soft-Top"	4300.00
19. Three-Seat Democrat*(8 Passenger) with "Soft-Top"	4500.00
* Includes Brakes and Lights
20. Vis-A-Vis	4300.00
21. Fancy Touring Surrey:
Steel-sided	7120.00
Oak-sided	9500.00
Oak-sided with all options*	9995.00

*Options include pinstripping driving lights, engraved name.

Terms:

50% down--balance on delivery
All units F.O.B. Bozeman, Mont.

Special order items:

Prices and design upon request

"...All you need's a horse!"

CANCELLATION DATE APR-75
AMOUNT DUE

GREEN, RAYMOND
375 E 2ND N
HEBER UT 84032

David Mack

GROSS PREMIUM
MINUS DIVIDEND

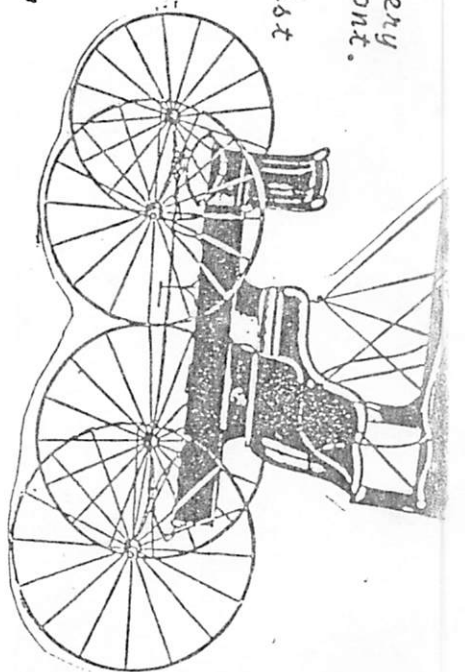

AGENT R SHUMWAY
1096 DAVENPORT

POLICY NUMBER
4368 114-019-44A

WE HAVE NOT RECEIVED THE FULL AMOUNT REQUIRED TO KEEP THIS POLICY IN FORCE SO
CANCELLATION EFFECTIVE 12:01 A.M. STANDARD TIME APR-06-75
DUE TO NON-PAYMENT OF PREMIUM. NO FURTHER NOTICE WILL BE SENT TO YOU.

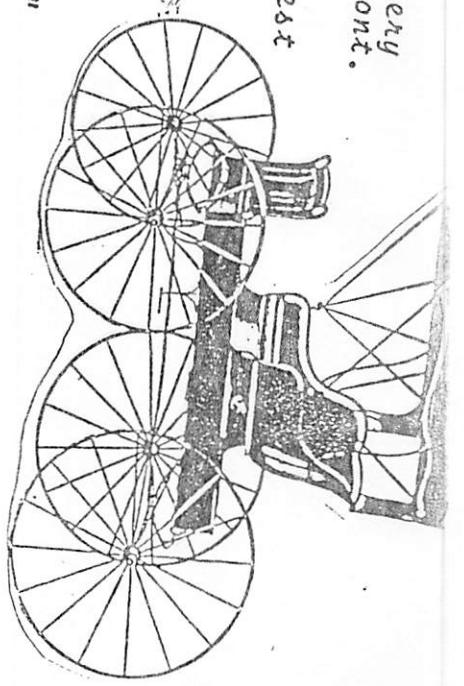

50¢
We down--balance on delivery
All units F.O.B. Bozeman, Mont.
Special order items:
Prices and design upon request

"...All you need's a horse!"

50¢ down--balance on delivery
All units F.O.B. Bozeman, Mont.
Special order items:
Prices and design upon request

"...All you need's a horse!"

THE CUTLERY SPECIALISTS

L. LORENZ GRINDING
80 YEARS STRONG 1910-1990

